Note: The targeted programs are designed to serve homeless people specifically, while the nontargeted programs are generally designed to serve low-income people and/or people with special needs.

<sup>a</sup> Program funds may be used for housing referral services and short-term emergency housing assistance to ensure eligible HIV-infected persons and families maintain access to medical care.

<sup>b</sup> The eligible education services are specific to the services provided under these programs (e.g., treatment education).

<sup>c</sup> Program funds can also be used for nonmedical mental and substance abuse treatment services.

<sup>e</sup> ESG and SHP program funds can also be used for life skills training, child care, AIDS treatment, etc.

<sup>g</sup> Fifteen percent of CDBG entitlement funds can be spent on supportive services.

<sup>h</sup> According to Labor's Director of Operations and Programs, supportive services are allowed under DOL programs, but the Department is not likely to fund these services because grantees can leverage them from other agencies, such as HUD and VA.
